SINK THREE WARSHIPS

German Submarines in Daring Raid.

ABOUT TWO-THIRDS OF CREWS PERISH

British Cruisers, While Obsolete, Still Very Useful.

Ymuiden, Holland, via London, Sept. 23.—Two of five German submarine boats which attacked and sank the British cruisers Aboukir, Cressy and Hogue were sent to the bottom by the British ships, according to survivors from the cruisers who arrived here.

London, Sept. 23.—The daring raid of German submarines across the North sea, which resulted in the sinking of the British cruisers Aboukir, Hogue and Cressy, momentarily has diverted attention from the battlefields of the continent.

This was one of the things the British navy has been led to expect, for the Germans quite frankly have avowed that their plan was to reduce British naval superiority by submarine raids and the sowing of mines and they have been training their young officers for sallies of this kind.

Nevertheless it came as a shock to Englishmen that big ships such as those sunk could be attacked and destroyed so easily, while the German fleet has been able to remain in safety in its mine and fortress protected harbors.

British Fleet Must Keep Seas.

However, the British fleet must keep the seas to insure Great Britain's food supply and in so doing must run great risks.

The ships sunk, while obsolete, still were very useful vessels and it is little satisfaction to England to know that her cruiser fleet is still double in number that of the Germans and that, as Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, has said, she will be able to build during the war three to Germany's one.

The Hamburg-American line steamer Spreewald has been captured by the British cruiser Berwick in the North Atlantic, according to an announcement by the admiralty.

It was stated also that two colliers had been captured.

German Cruiser Captured.

The Spreewald was fitted out as an armed cruiser. The Spreewald is a steamer of 2,214 tons. The two colliers carried 2,600 tons of coal and 180 tons of provisions for the German cruisers at Atlantic waters.

The total number of German vessels which, according to latest reports, have been captured by British vessels at sea or by British port authorities is twelve. Ninety-five German vessels were detained in British ports at the outbreak of the war.

Seventy British vessels were held in German ports at the commencement of hostilities and since then twelve British sea going vessels out of the upwards of 4,000 carrying on over sea trade have been captured and sunk at sea.

ARCTIC GARMENTS FOR SOLDIERS AT FRONT.

Paris, Sept. 23.—The weather continues excessively cold for this season of the year and is causing much anxiety for the comfort of the soldiers in the trenches and camps. Associations are being formed to hasten the making of heavy knit garments and sleeping sacks similar to those used by arctic explorers for use by the troops at the front.

COUNT VON HOETZENDORF.

One of Best Known Commanders in German Army.

DESTRUCTION OF CATHEDRAL

Count von Bernstorff Says Act Was Not Willful.

New York, Sept. 23.—Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, asserted it was "preposterous to suppose that the destruction of the cathedral at Rheims was a premeditated act."

"It would seem from certain published reports," Count von Bernstorff continued, "that the destruction of this grand old edifice was the result of malice. This is ridiculous. I am positive that the attack on the cathedral at Rheims was not willful. However, I believe this is a case of hyper-sympathy. For my part, I feel much more for the thousands of men who have sacrificed their lives, although I regret as much as any man the destruction of such a beautiful work of art."

BATTLE WILL LAST SEVERAL MORE DAYS

French Paper Says German Resistance Is Weakening.

Bordeaux, Sept. 23.—"The battle between the Oise and the Meuse probably will last three or four days longer," says the Temps in a military review. "But reports indicate that the resistance of the enemy is weakening. Another effort and French territory will be free of them. It will be hard, however, for we shall have many victims."

"Our advance between Rheims and the Argonne seems to show the greater part of the German army in retreat by way of Belgium. West of the Meuse they are already making extensive defensive works on the Sambré."

SHOOT THE CHAUFFEUR DEAD

King Albert Frustrates Attempt to Kidnap Him.

Paris, Sept. 23.—King Albert of the Belgians escaped capture by the Germans recently only by shooting the chauffeur who was driving him rapidly toward the German lines, according to statements published in Lille.

Describing the narrow escape of the king the paper declares the incident occurred while his majesty was making a tour of inspection of the Belgian forts.

He noticed that his chauffeur was taking him near the German lines and ordered him to stop. Instead the chauffeur put on full speed and headed straight for the Germans. King Albert drew his revolver and shot the chauffeur dead.

Papers were found on his body showing the Germans had promised him $200,000 if he was successful in delivering the king into their hands.

Italian Expedition Formed.

Rome, via Paris, Sept. 23.—A dispatch received here from Lyons, France, says that 5,000 Italian volunteers under General Giuseppe Garibaldi, are leaving for an unknown rendezvous to fight the Germans.

Special to Dispatch:

London, Sept. 23, 11:50 A. M.—Nine miles of trenches are filled with unburied dead, the fruit of the fighting of the British troops now making up the Allied left wing. They were taken in the turning movement in the district just south of St. Quentin and Peronne. For hours before the British charged the line their artillery shelled the German position.

ALLIES ATTEMPT TO TURN GERMAN RIGHT

Special to The Dispatch:

London, Sept. 23, 2:55 P. M.—Momentous events that may decide the battle of the Aisne are happening near St. Quentin, where the Allies began the eleventh day of the battle with furious attempt to turn the German right wing. Vague, but persistent reports, wholly unofficial, but coming from several points, suggest that the Franco-British turning movement is slowly developing.

BRITISH AIR MEN FIRE AVIATION SHED

Special to The Dispatch:

Antwerp, Sept. 23, 11:50 A. M.—British aviators have dropped shells on the Bickendorf aviation grounds at Cologne, setting fire to one of the sheds used to house the Zeppelin air ships.

MRS. EDWARDS CLAIMS PLOT

Files Affidavits in Alleged White Slave Case.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Affidavits were presented to Charles Clynne, United States district attorney, charging that the indictments of William Rufus Edwards, wealthy St. Paul lumberman, on a charge of violating the white slave act, were the result of a plot by Miss Ada M. Cox, the complaining witness.

Although the indictments were returned a year ago the trial has not yet been begun.

The affidavits were presented to Clynne by Mrs. Edwards.

Miss Cox, she said, is living on the $17,500 she collected from Edwards in the Minnesota state courts. Edwards is in a sanatorium near St. Paul. His hair has turned snow white and he does not recognize his most intimate friends, according to his wife.

ACCUSED OF EXTRAVAGANCE

Republicans Attack Democratic War Revenue Bill.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Early discussion in the house of the war revenue bill to raise approximately $105,000,000 was forecast when Majority Leader Underwood announced it would be brought up Thursday under a rule limiting debate for four hours.

Republican members in the brief time allotted them will attack the measure along lines suggested in a minority report filed by Representative Payne, New York, protesting that there was "no occasion for panic, hasty action or headlong action to heap heavier burdens upon the people."

The Democrats were charged with extravagance and failure of the new tariff to meet expectations of its framers.

LONG FILIBUSTER CEASES

Senate Passes Substitute River and Harbor Bill.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Prompt passage by the senate of a substitute measure providing $20,000,000 to be expended on existing projects finally ended the long filibuster against the river and harbor appropriation bill, which originally carried $53,000,000.

The bill goes to the house, where it is expected to precipitate another vigorous fight.

When the commerce committee, under the senate's instructions, brought in the substitute no show of opposition was offered and the measure passed without a record vote.

Russian Fitness Surprises Berlin.

"The Russians," writes a correspondent of the Neue Rotterdamsche Courant in Berlin, "are very much better than they were thought to be. One hears that on every side. From Austria one hears that the way the men are clothed and shod is splendid. Alcohol has been forbidden throughout the Russian army, and a strong hand is being kept on the soldiers."

General Botha Will Command.

London, Sept. 23.—General Louis Botha, premier and minister of agriculture of the Union of South Africa, will take supreme command of the British operations against German Southwest Africa.

Bread From Tulip Bulbs.

On account of the scarcity of wheat in Holland the Association of Dutch Bakers has sanctioned the use of a so called "tulip bread," in which one-third of the flour used is made from ground tulip bulbs. The bread is said to be very nourishing, and the war ministry has recommended its use in the army.

The Lost Company.

"Hungry, I suppose," said the sharp faced woman as she opened the door to a little bit.

"W'y, no," answered the ragged wayfarer. "I've clean forgot how to be hungry. But I'm out and out lonely."

"Lonely?"

"Yes. You see, I hain't had nothing to eat for so long that I've got so thin I can't cast no shadow, and you ain't no idea what company a man's shadow is to him while he is travelin' along the road."

Using It.

Old Lady (to grocer's boy)—Don't you know that it is very rude to whistle when dealing with a lady?

Boy—That's what the gun'or told me to do, mum.

"Told you to whistle?"

"Yes'm. He said if we ever sold you anything we'd have to whistle for the money."—London Fun.

The Assuan Dam.

The great Assuan dam on the Nile is 2,185 yards long and 130 feet high. The water stored behind the dam is estimated by the engineers at over a thousand millions of cubic meters. The gain to the country from the dam is over $20,000,000 a year, to say nothing of the large amount received for the reclaimed lands.—New York American.

Cynical.

There is nothing new under the sun unless it might possibly be antique furniture.—New York Times.

FOLLOW UP SUCCESSES

Russians Advancing in Galicia.

CAPTURE IMPORTANT JAROSLAW FORTRESS

Possession Aids Czar's Men in Attacking Przemysl.

London, Sept. 23.—The Russians have followed up their successes in Galicia where a third great battle is about to begin, if it has not already started, by capturing the important fortress of Jaroslau, on the River San, just north of Przemysl, which they are surrounding. Jaroslau commands the passage of the San river and its possession will assist the Russians greatly in their operations against Przemysl, where a strong Austro-German force is prepared to offer stubborn resistance, in the hope of at least detaining the Russian armies, which are needed to take the offensive against Germany.

The Servians report another victory over the Austrians, who thus far have suffered severely on all sides.

The engagement occurred near Kroupani, on the Drina, where the Austrians attempted to invade Serbia, but were driven back. This attack accounts for the Servian evacuation of Semlin, as the troops were needed to stem the Austrian offensive movement.

The Rome correspondent of the Star says the Servian and Montenegrin troops have occupied Sarajevo, which was abandoned by the Austrians after an overwhelming defeat.

Sarajevo is the capital of Bosnia. It is a fortified town of some 27,000 inhabitants. It manufactures copper, brass and ironware and cotton goods and tobacco. It was here that Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir apparent to the Austrian throne, and his wife were assassinated shortly before Austria declared war on Serbia.

UPWARDS OF 40,000 MEN

Canada Will Have Large Force in Europe by Jan. 1.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 23.—It is understood in military quarters that by January next Canada will have abroad, either on the fighting line or in England, upwards of 40,000 men. The 31,000 to be sent from Valcartier in all probability will go to a depot in England, from which they will be sent to the front when thoroughly efficient. Recruits to fill up gaps in the ranks caused by casualties and sickness will be sent from Canada to this depot from time to time, probably bringing the total to about 41,000 by Jan. 1.

GENERAL STEINMETZ SLAIN

German Artillery Officer Said to Have Fallen.

London, Sept. 23.—Telegraphing from Amsterdam the correspondent of the Central News says it is reported there that General Steinmetz of the German artillery was killed in France Sept. 15.

Continuing the correspondent says that reports from Liege declare that the Germans have brought the fortresses of Liege into such condition that they may again be used for defense.

German Right Wing Turned.

London, Sept. 23.—The Daily Mail's correspondent reports that the German right has been turned between Peronne and St. Quentin. He says that during all Sunday night wounded arrived at an unnamed place. They report also there are nine miles of dead in trenches between those two towns.

Cathedral Tapestries Saved.

Bordeaux, Sept. 23.—The magnificent set of ancient tapestries which hung in the cathedral of Rheims was removed before the bombardment by officials from the office of the under secretary of fine arts and is in a place of safety.

LORD KITCHENER.

Approves Plan to Raise Entire Welsh Army Corps.

KITCHENER APPROVES PLAN

Complete Welsh Army Corps Will Be Formed.

London, Sept. 23.—Earl Kitchener, secretary for war, has approved Chancellor Lloyd George's proposal for the formation of a Welsh army corps. Plans are being prepared for recruiting throughout all Wales and Monmouthshire.

DUE TO INACTIVITY OF BRITISH FLEET

American Naval Officers Comment on Submarines.

Washington, Sept. 23.—United States naval officers expressed no great amount of surprise when they received the news that three British cruisers had been sunk by German submarines. In fact, many of them here for days have said that if the British fleet did not become active soon some of their vessels would be torpedoed.

The one criticism of the British in the present war has been the inactivity of the main part of the great British navy. Officers here say that only a small part of the British fleet is being utilized in keeping open the channels of commerce between the western hemisphere and Europe and that its main fleet ought to have been engaged in more than guarding the British Isles.

Naval officers here assert the value of submarines is appreciated fully. A fleet of submarines is as valuable to a navy as dreadnoughts, they assert. It was the war between Russia and Japan which first proved the worth of the submarine and that war showed more than that. It showed that no navy was complete without a large fleet of the small underwater fighters.

MANY OFFICERS ARE SLAIN

French Uniforms Are Believed to Be Too Conspicuous.

Paris, Sept. 23.—The proportion of French officers killed or wounded in the battles is so great as compared with the casualties among the privates that the question is being discussed whether it would not be advisable to modify officers' uniforms and make them more difficult to distinguish from those of the men.

The Germans seem to pick out officers all the more easily since the French officers are said to be showing great daring at the heads of their companies.

There have been many promotions of general officers recently to fill vacancies made through casualties.

The brilliant French cavalry leader, General Bridoux, has been killed in action.

Confirms Carmania's Victory.

Berlin, via Rotterdam and London, Sept. 23.—The report of the sinking of the German armed merchant cruiser Cap Trafalgar, Sept. 14, off the East coast of South America by the Cunard line steamer Carmania, converted into a British auxiliary cruiser, has been confirmed in an official statement given out here.

NO CHANGE IN GENERAL SITUATION

Tide of Big Battle Ebbs and Flows.

FRENCH CLAIM TO BE MAKING GAINS

German Right Wing Is Believed to Be Hard Pressed.

London, Sept. 23.—There have been no important changes on the battle fronts in Northern France. The opposing armies continue to gain a little here and lose a little there. These gains may tell in the long run, but have brought no decisive result for either side.

The French official report issued again lays some stress on the announcement that an advance is being made by the allies' left wing on the right bank of the river Oise, from which point both public and the military experts look for first indications of how the battle is likely to end.

Although the official reports do not go beyond saying that the Germans have been forced to give ground before the French attacks and speak of Noyon and the district around that city as the center of the operations some correspondents describe the allies' left as extending from just west of Noyon to as far north as Lescatete, from which point, or Peronne, the new army of which there have been so many reports, but no confirmation, is supposed to be operating to threaten the German right wing.

German Right in Danger.

If this is true the German right is in a very dangerous position, for it cannot extend much farther north or west of St. Quentin. Its position runs thence by way of Chauny and south of Laon to north of Rheims.

On the plateau of Craonne severe fighting has been going on for days, but there is no late information as to whether the Germans or the allies hold the commanding positions here. The allies had the plateau a few days ago but the German official reports claim that it has been retaken, together with the village of Betheny.

In the center between Rheims and Soissons, which the French occupied early in the week, there has been more desperate fighting, the Germans taking the offensive and, according to the French reports, being repulsed. The Germans also have made some attacks in the Woëvre district, without success, but they have succeeded again in crossing the Lorraine frontier and occupying Donestre, to the south of Blamont.

The French have captured additional prisoners and supply trains.

CONTAINS MANY OFFICERS

British Press Bureau Issues New Casualty List.

London, Sept. 23.—The official press bureau issued a casualty list under date of Sept. 17, which shows twenty-eight officers killed, forty-six wounded and fourteen missing.

Three officers previously reported as missing have returned to their commands.

Of other ranks 150 wounded and 202 missing are reported.

AUSTRIA PREPARES TO INVADE ITALY.

Rome, Sept. 23.—In spite of denials by the Austrian government newspapers here publish detailed descriptions purporting to show that Austrian armaments are being placed on the Italian frontier and declaring preparations are being made by Austria to invade Italy.

London, Sept. 23.—The Daily Mail's correspondent reports that the German right has been turned between Peronne and St. Quentin. He says that during all Sunday night wounded arrived at an unnamed place. They report also there are nine miles of dead in trenches between those two towns.

Cathedral Tapestries Saved.

Bordeaux, Sept. 23.—The magnificent set of ancient tapestries which hung in the cathedral of Rheims was removed before the bombardment by officials from the office of the under secretary of fine arts and is in a place of safety.

LORD KITCHENER.

Approves Plan to Raise Entire Welsh Army Corps.

KITCHENER APPROVES PLAN

Complete Welsh Army Corps Will Be Formed.

London, Sept. 23.—Earl Kitchener, secretary for war, has approved Chancellor Lloyd George's proposal for the formation of a Welsh army corps. Plans are being prepared for recruiting throughout all Wales and Monmouthshire.

DUE TO INACTIVITY OF BRITISH FLEET

American Naval Officers Comment on Submarines.

Washington, Sept. 23.—United States naval officers expressed no great amount of surprise when they received the news that three British cruisers had been sunk by German submarines. In fact, many of them here for days have said that if the British fleet did not become active soon some of their vessels would be torpedoed.

The one criticism of the British in the present war has been the inactivity of the main part of the great British navy. Officers here say that only a small part of the British fleet is being utilized in keeping open the channels of commerce between the western hemisphere and Europe and that its main fleet ought to have been engaged in more than guarding the British Isles.

Naval officers here assert the value of submarines is appreciated fully. A fleet of submarines is as valuable to a navy as dreadnoughts, they assert. It was the war between Russia and Japan which first proved the worth of the submarine and that war showed more than that. It showed that no navy was complete without a large fleet of the small underwater fighters.

MANY OFFICERS ARE SLAIN

French Uniforms Are Believed to Be Too Conspicuous.

Paris, Sept. 23.—The proportion of French officers killed or wounded in the battles is so great as compared with the casualties among the privates that the question is being discussed whether it would not be advisable to modify officers' uniforms and make them more difficult to distinguish from those of the men.

The Germans seem to pick out officers all the more easily since the French officers are said to be showing great daring at the heads of their companies.

There have been many promotions of general officers recently to fill vacancies made through casualties. The brilliant French cavalry leader, General Bridoux, has been killed in action.

Confirms Carmania's Victory.

Berlin, via Rotterdam and London, Sept. 23.—The report of the sinking of the German armed merchant cruiser Cap Trafalgar, Sept. 14, off the East coast of South America by the Cunard line steamer Carmania, converted into a British auxiliary cruiser, has been confirmed in an official statement given out here.

NO CHANGE IN GENERAL SITUATION

Tide of Big Battle Ebbs and Flows.

FRENCH CLAIM TO BE MAKING GAINS

German Right Wing Is Believed to Be Hard Pressed.

London, Sept. 23.—There have been no important changes on the battle fronts in Northern France. The opposing armies continue to gain a little here and lose a little there. These gains may tell in the long run, but have brought no decisive result for either side.

The French official report issued again lays some stress on the announcement that an advance is being made by the allies' left wing on the right bank of the River Oise, from which point both public and the military experts look for first indications of how the battle is likely to end.

Although the official reports do not go beyond saying that the Germans have been forced to give ground before the French attacks and speak of Noyon and the district around that city as the center of the operations some correspondents describe the allies' left as extending from just west of Noyon to as far north as Leclatet, from which point, or Peronne, the new army of which there have been so many reports, but no confirmation, is supposed to be operating to threaten the German right wing.

German Right in Danger.

If this is true the German right is in a very dangerous position, for it cannot extend much farther north or west of St. Quentin. Its position runs thence by way of Chauny and south of Laon to north of Rheims.

On the plateau of Craonne severe fighting has been going on for days, but there is no late information as to whether the Germans or the allies hold the commanding positions here. The allies had the plateau a few days ago but the German official reports claim that it has been retaken, together with the village of Betheny.

In the center between Rheims and Sonain, which the French occupied early in the week, there has been more desperate fighting, the Germans taking the offensive and, according to the French reports, being repulsed. The Germans also have made some attacks in the Woivre district, without success, but they have succeeded again in crossing the Lorraine frontier and occupying Donestre, to the south of Blamont.

The French have captured additional prisoners and supply trains.

CONTAINS MANY OFFICERS

British Press Bureau Issues New Casualty List.

London, Sept. 23.—The official press bureau issued a casualty list under date of Sept. 17, which shows twenty-eight officers killed, forty-six wounded and fourteen missing.

Three officers previously reported as missing have returned to their commands. Of other ranks 150 wounded and 202 missing are reported.

AUSTRIA PREPARES TO INVADE ITALY.

Rome, Sept. 23.—In spite of denials by the Austrian government newspapers here publish detailed descriptions purporting to show that Austrian armaments are being placed on the Italian frontier and declaring preparations are being made by Austria to invade Italy.

SENATE RESENTS ALL CRITICISM

Intense Feeling is Aroused by Magazines and Newspapers.

ABSENTEES ARE CONDEMNED

Senator Jones of Washington Asserts That the Average Attendance is Less Than 20 Per Cent—Senator Burton of Ohio Makes Valuable Speech on River and Harbor Bill.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.
Washington, Sept. 16.—[Special].—There is nothing that will arouse more intense feeling among senators than to have severe criticisms passed upon them in magazine articles or in newspaper articles and editorials. Sometimes newspaper men who have been appointed to public office have found it difficult to secure confirmation because the senate had some sore spots and brought forth criticisms of the newspaper man when he was in an editorial position or correspondent.

And yet it often happens that neither the muckraker nor editorial critic and rarely a Washington correspondent says as bitter things about the senate as some of the senators. An example of this happened not long ago during the consideration of one of the trust bills. It was Senator Jones of Washington who made the criticism.

A Vacant Senate.
"What the people who have looked down upon us from the galleries during the last few weeks have thought of our deliberations I shall not pretend to say," said the Washington senator. "I am afraid they have not taken to the folks at home a very good report. How could they? They know pretty well the situation. The folks at home do not."

Then he went on to show that of the ninety-six senators there was an average of less than twenty present at nearly every hour of the day. He took up a whole week and had evidently kept close tab on the number of senators present at different hours.

Knowledge of Burton.
Senator Burton of Ohio, according to an Ohio man, "knows better what he knows than any man that ever lived in Ohio." He was referring particularly to the knowledge which Senator Burton has of the river and harbor bill. It is marvelous the amount of knowledge he has concerning every river and harbor and every proposed waterway in the country. His speech on the subject would be a valuable reference book, if anybody ever cared to go through it. Senator Ransdell of Louisiana knows considerable about rivers and harbors, but he is not in it with the Ohio senator.

When They Are Squeezed.
Congressman Raker of California has tried to get the house to grant consideration of a bill relating to lands in California. He was questioned by Congressman Mondell of Wyoming, who thought there was too much power lodged in the secretary of the interior. "The people of California are perfectly willing to let the secretary fix the royalty," declared Raker. "They must be liberal folks out there," was the comment of Mondell. "Well," said Raker, "when you get squeezed you have got to be liberal."

House Story Tellers.
Probably no man in the house is more amusing than Tom Heflin of Alabama, according to the number of times the word "laughter" is injected into one of his funny speeches. It is noticeable, however, that one can scarcely make a good readable story out of Heflin's efforts, for they do not read as well as they sound. It is largely in the manner in which Heflin tells the story that creates amusement in the house.

not like those of John Allen of Mississippi, who was by all odds the greatest humorist the house has known in a quarter of a century. No one could tell a story like Allen and make it as funny as Allen, but yet those stories can be repeated today and will cause a great deal of amusement. There are not many men in congress now who served with John Allen, but the memory of him still remains.

Theory and Practice.
The theory of the republic of the United States is that the people rule and that the representatives in congress carry out their will. The practice is that a few men in congress get together and do all of the important work and that the others vote for it when the time comes. Take the special war revenue bill. Two men, the secretary of the treasury and the chairman of the ways and means committee, fixed up the provisions of the bill, and the representatives of the people had very little to do with it. Probably it is just as well, for no one can tell what kind of a bill the 435 members would have put forth if they had their way.

Comparative Quiet.
Looking down from the press gallery the other day a veteran member of the Washington correspondents remarked: "Well, there is comparative quiet in the house, I observe. Tom Butler is not calling a quorum and Jim Mann is not calling anybody a liar." This was right after some of the outbreaks when there was ill feeling in the house.

COURAGE.
A tonic for courage is the eleventh chapter of Hebrews. A person cannot rise from the reading of this roll of heroes without being more heroic. Courage is contagious. We become brave by associating with the brave, in literature and in life. The mind that is stored with the great words of heroism is least likely to stoop to deeds of cowardice.—Nautilus.

Hamlet in South Africa.
It can hardly be expected that "post impressionism" will be confined to pictures in the future. A friend of mine writes me from South Africa that some genius out there has done "Hamlet" in the Taal and quotes the following example, which seems to me extremely post impressionistic. Here it is:
Hamlet—Wie is u?
Ghost—Ik is een spook.
Hamlet—Wies spook is u?
Ghost—Ik is u papa's spook.—New York Sun.

A Different Licking.
Visitor (confronting Tommy, who has upset a bottle of ink on the new carpet)—Never mind, my boy; no use to cry over spilled milk. Tommy (indignantly)—Any dunce would know that. If it's milk that's spilled all you have to do is to call the cat, an' she'll lick it up cleaner'n anything. But this ain't milk, an' mother'll do the lickin' is what ails me.—Chicago Herald.

Consoling.
"That was tough meat you gave me last night," said the somewhat dilatory customer.
"Oh, run along!" said the dealer. "You will forget it by the time you pay for it."—Buffalo Express.

Buttonwood.
Florida buttonwood, a tree confined largely to the keys along the south coast, is very highly prized for use in cooking on ship's galleys. It burns slowly with an even heat and makes but little smoke or ash.

Don't be Bothered with Coughing
Stop it with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It spreads a soothing, healing coating as it glides down the throat, and tickling, hoarseness, and nervous hacking are quickly healed. Children love it—tastes good and no opiates. A man in Texas walked 15 miles to a drug store to get a bottle. Best you can buy for croup and bronchial coughs. Try it. H. P. Dunn.

Washington, Sept. 16.—[Special].—There is nothing that will arouse more intense feeling among senators than to have severe criticisms passed upon them in magazine articles or in newspaper articles and editorials. Sometimes newspaper men who have been appointed to public office have found it difficult to secure confirmation because the senate had some sore spots and brought forth criticisms of the newspaper man when he was in an editorial position or correspondent.

And yet it often happens that neither the muckraker nor editorial critic and rarely a Washington correspondent says as bitter things about the senate as some of the senators. An example of this happened not long ago during the consideration of one of the trust bills. It was Senator Jones of Washington who made the criticism.

A Vacant Senate.

"What the people who have looked down upon us from the galleries during the last few weeks have thought of our deliberations I shall not pretend to say," said the Washington senator. "I am afraid they have not taken to the folks at home a very good report. How could they? They know pretty well the situation. The folks at home do not."

Then he went on to show that of the ninety-six senators there was an average of less than twenty present at nearly every hour of the day. He took up a whole week and had evidently kept close tab on the number of senators present at different hours.

Knowledge of Burton.

Senator Burton of Ohio, according to an Ohio man, "knows better what he knows than any man that ever lived in Ohio." He was referring particularly to the knowledge which Senator Burton has of the river and harbor bill. It is marvelous the amount of knowledge he has concerning every river and harbor and every proposed waterway in the country. His speech on the subject would be a valuable reference book, if anybody ever cared to go through it. Senator Ramsdell of Louisiana knows considerable about rivers and harbors, but he is not in it with the Ohio senator.

When They Are Squeezed.

Congressman Raker of California has tried to get the house to grant consideration of a bill relating to lands in California. He was questioned by Congressman Mondell of Wyoming, who thought there was too much power lodged in the secretary of the interior. "The people of California are perfectly willing to let the secretary fix the royalty," declared Raker. "They must be liberal folks out there," was the comment of Mondell. "Well," said Raker, "when you get squeezed you have got to be liberal."

House Story Tellers.

Probably no man in the house is more amusing than Tom Heflin of Alabama, according to the number of times the word "laughter" is injected into one of his funny speeches. It is noticeable, however, that one can scarcely make a good readable story out of Heflin's efforts, for they do not read as well as they sound. It is largely in the manner in which Heflin tells the story that creates amusement in the house.

Not Like John Allen.

not like those of John Allen of Mississippi, who was by all odds the greatest humorist the house has known in a quarter of a century. No one could tell a story like Allen and make it as funny as Allen, but yet those stories can be repeated today and will cause a great deal of amusement. There are not many men in congress now who served with John Allen, but the memory of him still remains.

Theory and Practice.

The theory of the republic of the United States is that the people rule and that the representatives in congress carry out their will. The practice is that a few men in congress get together and do all of the important work and that the others vote for it when the time comes. Take the special war revenue bill. Two men, the secretary of the treasury and the chairman of the ways and means committee, fixed up the provisions of the bill, and the representatives of the people had very little to do with it. Probably it is just as well, for no one can tell what kind of a bill the 435 members would have put forth if they had their way.

Comparative Quiet.

Looking down from the press gallery the other day a veteran member of the Washington correspondents remarked: "Well, there is comparative quiet in the house, I observe. Tom Butler is not calling a quorum and Jim Mann is not calling anybody a liar." This was right after some of the outbreaks when there was ill feeling in the house.

COURAGE.

A tonic for courage is the eleventh chapter of Hebrews. A person cannot rise from the reading of this roll of heroes without being more heroic. Courage is contagious. We become brave by associating with the brave, in literature and in life. The mind that is stored with the great words of heroism is least likely to stoop to deeds of cowardice.—Nautilus.

Hamlet in South Africa.

It can hardly be expected that "post impressionism" will be confined to pictures in the future. A friend of mine writes me from South Africa that some genius out there has done "Hamlet" in the Taal and quotes the following example, which seems to me extremely post impressionistic. Here it is:

Hamlet—Wie is u?
Ghost—Ik is een spook.
Hamlet—Wie spook is u?
Ghost—Ik is u papa's spook.—New York Sun.

A Different Licking.

Visitor (confronting Tommy, who has upset a bottle of ink on the new carpet)—Never mind, my boy; no use to cry over spilled milk. Tommy (indignantly)—Any dunce would know that. If it's milk that's spilled all you have to do is to call the cat, an' she'll lick it up cleaner'n anything. But this ain't milk, an' mother'll do the lickin' is what ails me.—Chicago Herald.

Consoling.

"That was tough meat you gave me last night," said the somewhat dilatory customer.

"Oh, run along!" said the dealer. "You will forget it by the time you pay for it."—Buffalo Express.

Buttwood.

Florida buttwood, a tree confined largely to the keys along the south coast, is very highly prized for use in cooking on ship's galleys. It burns slowly with an even heat and makes but little smoke or ash.

Don't be Bothered with Coughing

Stop it with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It spreads a soothing, healing coating as it glides down the throat, and tickling, hoarseness, and nervous hacking are quickly healed. Children love it—tastes good and no opiates. A man in Texas walked 15 miles to a drug store to get a bottle. Best you can buy for croup and bronchial coughs. Try it. H. P. Dunn. —Advt. mwf

COUNTY SCHOOLS AT STATE FAIR

Second Year That Pupils of Rural Schools Have Entered Their Work at the Fair

PRIZES WON BY SCHOLARS

District School No. 43 Won an $8 Prize for Its Weed Catalogued Collection

This is the second year that the pupils from the rural schools have entered their work at the State Fair. The result is most gratifying to all concerned, not for the value of the prizes received, but the knowledge that they are doing work that is recognized as the best of its kind.

The two branches on which most emphasis was laid this year were "Our Minnesota Birds" with a view of the better appreciation of our friends and "Weeds," with a view of the eventual extermination of this great enemy.

A booklet on weeds by Clover Sablin, of Mission, received the third prize.

Oiga Johnson from District 20, near Deerwood, received the first prize on her booklet on "Birds" and Ruth Lindskog, Brainerd, Route 2, received the second prize on her booklet on "Birds."

Unfortunately the exhibits sent to the State Fair were not returned in time to be entered at the county fair. Any one interested may see this collection at the office of the county superintendent of schools in the court house.

The State Fair board offered prizes to the school sending the best collection of "Weed Seeds", not less than twenty-five being accepted, the collection to be judged on the accuracy of the naming, the clean lines of the samples and the general arrangements and neatness of each.

From District No. 43, a school six miles from Merrifield, came a weed catalogued collection, which received the first prize of $8. The enthusiasm of the scholars there in agricultural matters was fired by the efforts of A. J. Gafke, the county agricultural agent and by their teacher, Joseph Prushek, who last summer took a course at the agricultural school.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

If a knife is placed under a tumbler or glass dish, boiling milk or water can be put in without breaking the glass.

Rusty looking silk can be made clean and new looking if sponged with the water in which potatoes have been boiled.

When boiling eggs, wet the shells thoroughly in cold water before dropping in the boiling water, and they will not crack.

After washing lamp chimneys, try polishing them with dry salt. This gives the glass a brilliant shine and prevents it from cracking.

Fat or suet will keep sweet for a much longer time if separated from the skin, finely shredded and mixed with flour. Keep in a dry, cool place.

A good way of stiffening the bristles of hair brushes after washing is to dip them into a mixture of equal quantities of milk and water, and then dry before the fire.

To remove fruit stains from tablecloths and serviettes, apply powdered starch to the stained parts and leave for several hours till all the discoloration has been absorbed by the starch.

Always put scrubbing brushes to dry with the bristles face downwards. This lengthens their lives considerably, as if dried the other way the water naturally soaks into the wood and rots the bristles.

To remove paper labels from old bottles easily, wet the face of the label with water and hold it for an instant over any convenient flame. The steam formed penetrates the label at once and softens the paste.

VICISSITUDES OF FORTUNE

Mrs. Belinda A. Carboneau, Once Power in Klondike, Now in Litigation in West

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 23—Once the possessor of a fortune estimated at $1,000,000, Mrs. Belinda A. Carboneau of North Yakima, Wash., now has comparatively little, according to information divulged in the course of legal proceedings. Mrs. Carboneau's name was well known in Alaskan affairs in the years of the gold rush about 15 years ago. She went to Alaska in 1896, locating at Dawson. There she built the city's telephone and water system and became the only woman bank president in Alaska. She married Count Carboneau, a French soldier of fortune, who is reported later to have gone to Paris to lead a life of ease. Changing fortunes depleted Mrs. Carboneau's wealth at a rapid rate, until she came to eastern Washington and purchased an orchard in the Yakima valley. She is now being sued by Z. A. Scouse and others for an accounting of her property in North Yakima and Alaska. Scouse alleges that she failed to divide with him an interest in Alaskan mining property to which he claims he is entitled, but she denies that he had any interest in it.

Miss Elsie Schwartzkopf returned home Saturday after being operated for appendicitis at St. Joseph hospital and is recovering nicely.

Mrs. Frank McCaffrey and children have returned from a three months' visit with relatives and friends in southern Minnesota and Geneva, Wis.

C. H. Paine and daughter, Miss Bessie Paine, and their guests, Mrs. Stanford Wright and Mrs. Wyman, returned this noon from Nisswa.

Miss Minnie Peterson, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. F. S. Gallupe, 1615 Southeast Norwood reet, has returned to her home in Milbank, S. D. Miss Peterson was accompanied by her sister, Miss Ida Peterson, who will visit her several weeks.

Economy Cookies

It costs more to keep the cookie jar full these days than it did a year ago, but now that the school days are here, an empty cookie jar would be a calamity.

Here's a very good recipe for eggless cookies—it will make five dozen, and you'll never miss the eggs.

Take one large cup of butter and lard, mixed; one cupful of sugar, one cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of cloves, one teaspoonful of soda and flour for stiff dough. Pour over the soda a little boiling water before using it. Mix the ingredients thoroughly, for if the dough is not properly mixed the cookies lose in flavor, and they will not be shiny and spicy when done. These cookies should be rolled thinner than sugar cookies.

Church Supper

The supper given at Trades & Labor hall by the ladies of the Evangelical church was a complete success. The ladies took in $100. The proceeds will be used in the church building fund. The piano duet played by Miss May B. Bruce and Miss Florence Zabel pleased the many present.

She married Count Carboneau, a French soldier of fortune, who is reported later to have gone to Paris to lead a life of ease. Changing fortunes depleted Mrs. Carboneau's wealth at a rapid rate, until she came to eastern Washington and purchased an orchard in the Yakima valley. She is now being sued by Z. A. Scouse and others for an accounting of her property in North Yakima and Alaska. Scouse alleges that she failed to divide with him an interest in Alaskan mining property to which he claims he is entitled, but she denies that he had any interest in it.

Economy Cookies

It costs more to keep the cookie jar full these days than it did a year ago, but now that the school days are here, an empty cookie jar would be a calamity.

Here's a very good recipe for eggless cookies—it will make five dozen, and you'll never miss the eggs.

Take a large cup of butter and lard, mixed; one cupful of sugar, one cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of cloves, one teaspoonful of soda and flour for stiff dough. Pour over the soda a little boiling water before using it. Mix the ingredients thoroughly, for if the dough is not properly mixed the cookies lose in flavor, and they will not be shiny and spicily when done. These cookies should be rolled thinner than sugar cookies.

Church Supper

The supper given at Trades & Labor hall by the ladies of the Evangelical church was a complete success. The ladies took in $100. The proceeds will be used in the church building fund. The piano duet played by Miss May B. Bruce and Miss Florence Zabel pleased the many present.

UNCLE SAM SOCKS ABROAD.

Patterned After the American Flag and Sold in London.

Socks patterned after the design of the American flag are on sale in London. One purveyor asserted that these Uncle Sam socks were meant to establish the identity of Americans going on continental missions.

Stripes run from top to bottom of the socks, with the exception of three rows of stars on a blue field just above the ankle. It was argued by one plausible merchant that no passport would be needed for the wearer of such a creation. Low shoes must be worn to get the proper effect.

LEE SEES VICTORY

Wm. E. Lee, republican candidate for governor, in attendance at the Benton county fair told his St. Cloud friends that the prospects of his election were excellent, and according to the Journal-Press in connection with the campaign said:

"So far we have had to meet only a negative campaign, as Mr. Hammond has made no definite statements as to where he stands on many of the important questions. I have received the endorsement of the Anti-saloon League of the state and am getting encouraging letters promising support from many sources."

GRIMMER PROBABLE MARSHAL

Although F. B. Lynch denies that he has recommended anyone for U. S. marshal to succeed W. H. Grimshaw, whose term does not expire until December, 1915, the Pioneer Press publishes the following political story which will be read with interest as the parties are well known in this city and section of the state:

"Harvey W. Grimmer of St. Cloud, probably will be the next United States marshal for Minnesota."

It is understood that the appointment was settled upon today by Fred B. Lynch, democratic national committeeman from Minnesota, and that the recommendation will be sent to Washington at once. It is to be effective January 1, according to all reports.

Mr. Lynch could not be reached this morning, and William H. Grimshaw, the present marshal, was absent from his Minneapolis office.

Senator Samuel D. Works, treasurer of the democratic state central committee, was asked:

"Is Mr. Grimmer the man?"

He refused to either affirm or deny the report.

Later Senator Works announced that Mr. Grimmer will be connected with the state committee during the remainder of the campaign in an official capacity. It is assumed in political circles that the St. Cloud man would not give up his position as a traveling salesman for the Fritz-Cross company to take up the committee work unless he had been assured of a Federal position.

In addition it is known that the place originally was promised to Mr. Grimmer and although there have been many reports recently that the democratic powers had shifted to some other man, including Chief of Police John J. O'Connor and Louis K. Hull, a Minneapolis attorney, these have always been denied by Mr. Lynch and his associates.

The report that Mr. Hull was to get the place was revived today in a special dispatch from Washington to The Dispatch. It was said in this that the Minneapolis attorney had received the endorsement of Mr. Lynch. Senator Works was asked concerning this.

"There is absolutely no foundation for that story, and I am in a position to know," he replied.

Mr. Grimshaw's term does not expire until December 1, 1915, but it is understood that when J. C. McReynolds became Attorney General in Wilson's cabinet he determined to get the marshal out before his term expired. His successor, Attorney General Gregory, was impressed with this same idea, it is said, when he assumed office a month ago and has been rather active in the matter since.

Should Mr. Grimshaw be ousted it is said that Senator Nelson will oppose the confirmation of a successor. In such an event the president could make a recess appointment after congress adjourns, which would hold until the Grimshaw term expires.

Mr. Grimmer was formerly a St. Paul newspaper man. He was appointed executive clerk by Governor John A. Johnson and served during the latter's entire term in that capacity. He was associated intimately with Frank A. Day, secretary to Governor Johnson, and it is believed in political circles that his appointment may serve to pave the way for a reconciliation between Mr. Day and the present democratic powers.

London's Old Cathedral.

St. Paul's cathedral of London has had a strange association with fire. The first edifice on the present site was erected in 610 by Ethelbert, king of Kent, but in 1087 this was destroyed by fire. Finally in 1096, when the great fire devastated most of London, St. Paul's was wrecked, this being its fifth fire. In 1075 the present church was built by Charles II. at a cost of more than $7,500,000.

CHAPTER IX.

Forewarned.

The thing was managed with an ingenuity that Alan termed devilish—it was indisputably Machiavellian.

The lovers had come down from the North in hot haste and the shadow of death. Two days of steady traveling by canoe, by woods trail, by lake steamer—forty-eight hours of fatigue and strain eased by not one instant's relaxation from the high tension of vigilance upon which their very lives depended—were to a culmination through this tedious afternoon on the train from Moosehead—a trap of physical torment only made possible by Alan's luck in securing, through sheer accident, two parlor-car reservations turned back at the last moment before leaving Kineo station.

No matter—the longest afternoon must have its evening; the pokiest of trains comes the more surely to its destination; in another hour or two they would be in Portland—free at last to draw breath of ease in a land of law, order and sane living.

As if in answer to this thought, the train slowed down with whistling brakes to the last hill-station, and as the trucks groaned and moved anew, a lout of a boy came galloping down the aisle, brandishing two yellow envelopes and blating like a stray calf: "Mista Law! Mista Law! Tel-grams for Mista Law!"

Alan had been expecting at every station a prepaid reply to his wire for reservations on the night express from Portland to New York.

But why two envelopes superscribed "Mr. A. Law, Kineo train southbound, Oakland Sta.?"

He tore one open, unfolded the inclosure, and grunted disgust with its curt advice, opened the other and caught his breath sharply as he withdrew—part way only—a playing card, a troy of hearts.

Thrusting it back quickly, he clapped both envelopes together, tore them into a hundred fragments, and scattered them from the window. But the fiendish wind whisked one small scrap back—and only one!—into the lap of the woman he loved.

Vainly he prayed that she might be asleep. The silken lashes trembled on her cheeks and lifted slightly, disclosing the dark glimmer of questioning eyes. And as she clipped the scrap of cardboard between thumb and forefinger he bent forward and silently took it from her—one corner of the troy of hearts, but inevitably a corner bearing the figure "3" above a heart.

"The Pullman agent at Portland wires no reservations available on any New York train in the next thirty-six hours," he said with lowered voice.

"Couldn't we possibly catch the New York boat tonight?"

He shook a glum head. "No—I looked that up first. It leaves before we get in."

She said, "Too bad," abstractedly, reclosed her eyes, and apparently lapsed anew into semi-somnolence—but without deceiving him who could well guess what poignant anxiety gnawed at her heart.

He could have ground his teeth in exasperation—the impish insolence of that warning, timed so precisely to set their nerves on edge at the very moment when they were congratulating themselves upon the approach of a respite!

The sheer insanity of the whole damnable business!

The grim, wild absurdity of it! To think that this was America, this the twentieth century, the apex of the highest form of civilization the world had ever known—and still a man could be hunted from pillar to post, haunted with threats, harried with attempts at assassination in a hundred

LEE SEES VICTORY

Wm. E. Lee, republican candidate for governor, in attendance at the Benton county fair told his St. Cloud friends that the prospects of his election were excellent, and according to the Journal-Press in connection with the campaign said:

"So far we have had to meet only a negative campaign, as Mr. Hammond has made no definite statements as to where he stands on many of the important questions. I have received the endorsement of the Anti-saloon League of the state and am getting encouraging letters promising support from many sources."

GRIMMER PROBABLE MARSHAL

Although F. B. Lynch denies that he has recommended anyone for U. S. marshal to succeed W. H. Grimshaw, whose term does not expire until December, 1915, the Pioneer Press publishes the following political story which will be read with interest as the parties are well known in this city and section of the state:

"Harvey W. Grimmer of St. Cloud, probably will be the next United States marshal for Minnesota."

It is understood that the appointment was settled upon today by Fred B. Lynch, democratic national committeeman from Minnesota, and that the recommendation will be sent to Washington at once. It is to be effective January 1, according to all reports.

Mr. Lynch could not be reached this morning, and William H. Grimshaw, the present marshal, was absent from his Minneapolis office.

Senator Samuel D. Works, treasurer of the democratic state central committee, was asked:

"Is Mr. Grimmer the man?"

He refused to either affirm or deny the report.

Later Senator Works announced that Mr. Grimmer will be connected with the state committee during the remainder of the campaign in an official capacity. It is assumed in political circles that the St. Cloud man would not give up his position as a traveling salesman for the Fritz-Cross company to take up the committee work unless he had been assured of a Federal position.

In addition it is known that the place originally was promised to Mr. Grimmer and although there have been many reports recently that the democratic powers had shifted to some other man, including Chief of Police John J. O'Connor and Louis K. Hull, a Minneapolis attorney, these have always been denied by Mr. Lynch and his associates.

The report that Mr. Hull was to get the place was revived today in a special dispatch from Washington to The Dispatch. It was said in this that the Minneapolis attorney had received the endorsement of Mr. Lynch Senator Works was asked concerning this.

"There is absolutely no foundation for that story, and I am in a position to know," he replied.

Mr. Grimshaw's term does not expire until December 1, 1915, but it is understood that when J. C. McReynolds became Attorney General in Wilson's cabinet he determined to get the marshal out before his term expired. His successor, Attorney General Gregory, was impressed with this same idea, it is said, when he assumed office a month ago and has been rather active in the matter since.

Should Mr. Grimshaw be ousted it is said that Senator Nelson will oppose the confirmation of a successor. In such an event the president could make a recess appointment after congress adjourns, which would hold until the Grimshaw term expires.

Mr. Grimmer was formerly a St. Paul newspaper man. He was appointed executive clerk by Governor John A. Johnson and served during the latter's entire term in that capacity. He was associated intimately with Frank A. Day, secretary to Governor Johnson, and it is believed in political circles that his appointment may serve to pave the way for a reconciliation between Mr. Day and the present democratic powers.

Dizzy Head, Fluttering Heart, Floating Specks

These are signs of kidney and bladder trouble. You'll have headaches too, backaches and be tired all over. Don't wait longer, but take Foley Kidney Pills at once. Your miserable sick feeling will be gone. You will sleep well, eat well and grow strong and active again. Try them. H. P. Dunn.—Advt. mwf

London's Old Cathedral.

St. Paul's cathedral of London has had a strange association with fire. The first edifice on the present site was erected in 610 by Ethelbert, king of Kent, but in 1087 this was destroyed by fire. Finally in 1693, when the great fire devastated most of London, St. Paul's was wrecked, this being its fifth fire. In 1675 the present church was built by Charles II. at a cost of more than $7,500,000.

A Lame Back—Kidney Trouble Causes It

And it will give you even worse if not checked. Mrs. H. T. Strayner, Gainesville, Ga., was fairly down on her back with kidney trouble and inflamed bladder. She says: "I took Foley Kidney Pills and now my back is stronger than in years, and both kidney and bladder troubles are entirely gone." H. P. Dunn.—Advt. mwf

CHAPTER IX.

Forewarned.

The thing was managed with an ingenuity that Alan termed devilish—it was indisputably Machiavellian.

The lovers had come down from the North in hot haste and the shadow of death. Two days of steady traveling by canoe, by woods trail, by lake steamer—forty-eight hours of fatigue and strain eased by not one instant's relaxation from the high tension of vigilance upon which their very lives depended—wore to a culmination through this tedious afternoon on the train from Moosehead—a trap of physical torment only made possible by Alan's luck in securing, through sheer accident, two parlor-car reservations turned back at the last moment before leaving Kineo station.

No matter—the longest afternoon must have its evening; the pokiest of trains comes the more surely to its destination; in another hour or two they would be in Portland—free at last to draw breath of ease in a land of law, order and sane living.

As if in answer to this thought, the train slowed down with whistling brakes to the last hill-station, and as the trucks groaned and moved anew, a lot of a boy came galloping down the aisle, brandishing two yellow envelopes and blating like a stray calf: "Mista Lawr! Mista Lawr! Tel'grams for Mista Lawr!"

Alan had been expecting at every station a prepaid reply to his wire for reservations on the night express from Portland to New York.

But why two envelopes superscribed "Mr. A. Law, Kineo train southbound, Oakland Sta.?"

He tore one open, unfolded the inclosure, and grunted disgust with its curt advice, opened the other and caught his breath sharply as he withdrew—part way only—a playing card, a Trey of hearts.

Thrusting it back quickly, he clapped both envelopes together, tore them into a hundred fragments, and scattered them from the window. But the fiendish wind whisked one small scrap back—and only one!—into the lap of the woman he loved.

Vainly he prayed that she might be asleep. The silken lashes trembled on her cheeks and lifted slightly, disclosing the dark glimmer of questioning eyes. And as she clipped the scrap of cardboard between thumb and forefinger he bent forward and silently took it from her—one corner of the Trey of hearts, but inevitably a corner bearing the figure "3" above a heart.

"The Pullman agent at Portland wires no reservations available on any New York train in the next thirty-six hours," he said with lowered voice.

"Couldn't we possibly catch the New York boat tonight?"

He shook a glum head. "No—I looked that up first. It leaves before we get in."

She said, "Too bad," abstractedly, reclosed her eyes, and apparently lapsed anew into semi-somnolence—but without deceiving him who could well guess what poignant anxiety gnawed at her heart.

He could have ground his teeth in exasperation—the implish insolence of that warning, timed so precisely to set their nerves on edge at the very moment when they were congratulating themselves upon the approach of a respite!

The sheer insanity of the whole damnable business!

The grim, wild absurdity of it! To think that this was America, this the twentieth century, the apex of the highest form of civilization the world had ever known—and still a man could be hunted from pillar to post, haunted with threats, harried with attempts at assassination in a hundred forms—and that by a slip of a girl with the cunning of a madwoman, the heart of a thug, the face of a charming child—the face of the woman that sat beside him, duplicating its every perfect feature so nearly that even he who loved the one could scarcely distinguish her from the other but by instinct, intuition, blind guesswork. . . .

He nodded heavy-hearted confirmation of a surmise slowly settling into conviction in his mind, that such cunning, such purpose and pertinacity could not possibly spring from a mind well balanced, that the woman, Judith Trine, sister to the Rose he loved so well, was as mad as that monomaniac, her father, who sat helpless in his cell of silence and shadows in New York, day after day, eating his heart out with impatience for the word that his vengeance had been consummated by the daughter whom he had inspired to execute it.

An hour late, in dusk of evening, the train lumbered into Portland station; and, heart in mouth, Alan helped Rose from the steps, shouldered a way for her through the crowd, and almost lifted her into a taxicab.

"Best hotel in town," he demanded. "And be quick about it—for a double tip."

He communicated his one desperate scheme to the girl en route, receiving her endorsement of it. So, having registered for her and seen her safely to the door of the best available room in the house within ready call of the public lobby and office, he washed up, gulped a hasty meal—which Rose had declined to share, pleading fatigue—and hurried away into the night with only the negro driver of a public hack, picked up haphazard at some distance from the hotel, for his guide.

Caught Her.

"I beg your pardon, ma'am, for calling you to the door."

"What's the trouble?"

"Why, the lady next door told me you would buy a jar of our beautifying cream because you needed it. But I see you don't. Good day, ma'am."

"Wait one moment, please. I'll take my way."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

TO DEDICATE BAND STAND

Structure Donated to City by F. S. Parker and Children, is Nearing Completion

SITUATED IN GREGORY PARK

Built of Pressed Brick—Band Stand Was Designed by White Bros. of Brainerd

The band stand donated to the city by Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Parker and children is now rapidly nearing completion. The structure, designed by White Brothers of this city, is situated in Gregory park.

It is built of pressed brick. A panel bearing the name of "Parker" and set in the wall is the modest token to show that it is a memorial for the late C. N. Parker.

Preparations are being made to dedicate the stand. The Brainerd City band will play an appropriate program and the occasion will be made a scene of rejoicing on the part of Brainerd citizens who thoroughly appreciate the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Parker and their children.

Langer-Hoerner

A pretty church wedding was celebrated at St. Francis Catholic church on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock when Miss Elizabeth Hoerner and Mr. Nicholas Langer were married, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Father John Crean.

The wedding march was played by Miss Frances Quinn and during the ceremony Mr. Al Mraz sang a solo.

The bride was attired in a white embroidered gown and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Rose Hoerner, who was dressed in white voile. The best man was Mr. Peter Langer, a brother of the bridegroom.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hoerner, 1307 South Broadway. Over 150 guests were present. The happy couple received many pretty and valuable gifts. A bountiful supper was served in the evening. The rooms were resplendent in decorations of flowers and ferns.

The bridegroom is an exemplary young man and is employed at the carshops of the Northern Pacific railway. The bride for nine years was a teacher in Morrison county, having a school at Pier.

Mr. and Mrs. Langer will reside in Brainerd, being at home after October 1 at 1120 South Sixth street.

FLAK ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Erickson entertained the neighbors at their home last Saturday evening. The evening was spent in dancing and playing games. A dainty luncheon was served and all had an enjoyable time.

Police Take Active Part in the Collection of Dog License Tax, Halting Five Into Court

Commencing at "A" in the list of delinquent dog taxes, police halted into court five men on Tuesday. They paid their dog tax of $1 each and costs. In the list were two men whose names commenced with "A" and three with "B." The rest of the alphabet will be vigorously attacked, for last evening City Clerk Roderick was making out another list of complaints.

A phase of automobile driving, hitherto disregarded, is being checked up and that is the running of a motor on a car left standing in the street. The law plainly forbids such a practice, as the car may be started up by an outsider and damage something or somebody. The first to disregard this injunction, pleaded guilty and paid $5 fine in municipal court yesterday.

Mike Donut, drunk, drew $5 or 5 days. On promise of good behavior sentence was suspended. Leonard Whangoorst, also under the influence of liquor, drew the same sentence, which was later suspended.

Kate Waters, of the Secret Service tonight and Thursday night, is one of the best detective stories ever put in motion. Kate Waters is sent to Monterey, Cal., by the secret service department to learn all she can of the murder of Colonel Allen. She goes with papers to Col. Presidia, the late successor. Kate takes the place of maid to find out what the troopers know. An orderly is given a note written by Collins, an officer who wounded Lieut. Bronson on the night of the murder of Col. Green.

The orderly shows the note to Kate and she learns the whereabouts of Collins. She then visits the underworld of San Francisco as a cabaret singer. She finds Collins and persuades him to tell her all of how he saw Col. Green's wife and Bronson making love, how he demanded Bronson to cease with his attentions; how they came to blows; how he was arrested and ordered to his quarters; how he saw the colonel's wife leave her quarters and meet Bronson and dressed to go away; how the colonel came from the house and pick up a note dropped by her; how he broke his arrest and ran to Mrs. Allen to prevent her from leaving; how he saw Bronson meet the colonel and quarrel; how he saw Bronson shoot and kill the colonel; how he met Bronson and shot at him; how he broke loose and came to San Francisco. Kate persuades him to return which he does and they convict Bronson. Later Kate and Collins are sweethearts. Friday and Saturday nights the management presents Mary Pickford in "A Normandy Romance." We always give a dollar bill for 10c.

ROAD BUILDING TO BE DISCUSSED

Northwestern Road Congress to be Held in Milwaukee on October 28, 29, 30 and 31

THIRTY PAPERS TO BE READ

Convention of Great Benefit to Army of County, Village and Town Board Delegates

Every phase of road building will be discussed at the Northwestern Road Congress to be held in Milwaukee, October 28, 29, 30 and 31. The concrete, brick, bituminous and macadam types of construction will be elaborately treated by experts of the United States government and the states participating. During the four days the congress is in session more than thirty papers will be read by such authorities as J. A. Hazelwood, state highway commissioner of Wisconsin; A. R. Hirst, Wisconsin, state engineer; Thomas H. McDonald, state highway engineer of Iowa, and others equally as high in the roster of authorities on road building. The subjects will treat of the road improvement question so thoroughly and the discussions which will follow the reading of each paper will be so broad that the greatest benefit will be derived by the army of county, village and town board delegates, which will comprise the majority of the road building delegates.

It is believed by the executive committee of the congress that the exposition of road building machinery, equipment, implements and materials, to be conducted by the leading manufacturers of the middle west in connection with the congress, will outclass any such exposition to be held during the present year. This exposition will have on display everything from a pickax to the largest type of steam shovel and from a one horse power gasoline motor to a hundred horse power traction engine and the twenty ton road roller.

State exhibits will be made by the highway commissions of Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota and an elaborate display will be made by Milwaukee county, showing its 100 miles of concrete roads. The United States government highway department will also make an exhibit.

Governors Edward F. Dune, Illinois; W. N. Ferris, Michigan; G. W. Clarke, Iowa; E. P. Eberhart, Minnesota; L. B. Hanna, North Dakota; Frank N. Byrne, South Dakota, and F. E. McGovern, Wisconsin, will attend the opening session of the congress. Governor McGovern will deliver the welcoming address in behalf of the state of Wisconsin and Hon. T. R. ## SUGGESTED SERVICES OCT. 4

Day Set For That Purpose by President Wilson in Proclamation.

WAR TAX PUZZLE IS HARD TO SOLVE

Every Suggestion Meets With Some Objections.

INJECT POLITICS INTO BILL

Tobacco Producing States Oppose Tax on Smokers—Saloon Keepers Who Reduce Size of "a Beer" Assert That Poor Man's Drink Is Being Taxed. Difficult to Forecast Effect.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Sept. 23.—[Special].—It begins to look as if the raising of additional revenue were going to be about the hardest proposition of the present administration. Every suggestion for a tax met with objections. No one wants to pay more taxes, and every interest tried to push it over on the other fellow.

Luxuries will have to stand the bulk of the taxes, and these will include articles which people can do without, such as whisky, beer, wines and tobacco. And yet there is strong opposition to such taxes. The men from tobacco states fear that the producers will have to pay the increase and that it will materially affect the consumption of tobacco.

The Political Aspect.

There is politics in the whole subject. The south will be vitally affected by increased tobacco taxes and to some extent the increase on spirits, which are produced in that section. But there is another aspect to the liquor increase. One prominent Democrat from a big city thus explained it: "In my city the liquor interests will form themselves into a political party, with 8,000 saloons as working headquarters, and fight the party which imposes the increased taxes. This is a mighty power and dangerous to the party. The claim will be made that the poor man's beer is being taxed. The glass of beer will be smaller, and the saloon man will explain that it is on account of the increased tax. There is political danger in taxing liquors as well as in imposing other kinds of taxes."

A Modest Senator.

The senate was discussing a financial bill, one of several emergency currency measures which have been proposed. Senator Gallinger was doubtful about the measure. "What I do not know in reference to financial matters," he said, "would make a large volume, and what I do know could be easily written on a single page." And then he went on to protest against the expansion and inflation of the currency, expressing the fear that it was fraught with danger in the future.

Twelve Dollars a Minute.

Congressman Cooper of Wisconsin called down the "Twelve dollar a minute men" in the house a few days ago. Those who object to debate, to confusions sessions and insist that congress should adjourn generally end up with the grand stand play that "congress is costing the people $12 a minute."

"I have heard that kind of talk over and over again," said Cooper. "Whether we are here or not our salaries and the salaries of all of the employees, with trifling exceptions, go on just the same, and congress costs just as much when in recess as when in session, save for small expenses."

Might Be Perjury.

When a bill was considered concerning some old man who as a boy served in the civil war the testimony showed that he made a false oath as to the date of his birth. That started the important controversy as to whether or not a man could swear to the date of his birth and be sure that he was not committing perjury. Congressman Smith of Minnesota asserted that the best any man could do under the circumstances was to swear "on information and belief," for he had to take the word of some other reliable people as to that event.

Discovered Arcadia.

During the discussion of the river and harbor bill reference was made to Arcadia, and Senator Burton, always fully informed, told about the little Michigan town.

"I bow to the senator from Ohio," said William Alden Smith. "At last neglected Arcadia is enshrined in the records of the government."

"The senator from Michigan is entitled to the honor of putting Arcadia on the map," replied Burton. "They ought to tax themselves to the last dollar in order to erect a bronze statue of him there."

"Why not have congress appropriate the money?" asked Kenyon of Iowa.

"Put it in this bill," chimed in Norris of Nebraska.

Thus do senators beguile themselves while fighting the big improvement measure.

"Don't Want to Adjourn."

"When is this session going to adjourn?" was a question put to Reed Smoot.

"They don't want to adjourn," was the reply of the Utah senator, his "they" meaning the Democrats. As he generally knows what is going on, it may be that he has the right idea. It is not believed that President Wilson wants the session to end, at least not right away.

The Samaritan's Sword

The sword of the silver sunlight is the only one he wields. The sword of the deeds of mercy in the bloom of the fragrant fields. A song on his lips forever. And the banner that o'er him springs the green of the leafy pennant. On the boughs of a thousand springs.

The sword of the silver sunlight—ah, sweeter was never born!—With its sapphire handle gleaming in the dewy dream of morning. A smile in his heart forever. And wherever he goes a word. As soft as the tender beauty Of the song of the woodland bird.

The sword of the silver sunlight that flashes about the skies, Catching the laughing twinkle of the good Samaritan's eyes: A rose in his hand forever. As over the world he goes To plant in the path of the living. The flower of the deathless rose.

The sword of the silver sunlight, more everlasting than steel. And always drawn in the service of love that is long and leal: A kiss on the brows that suffer. A smile for the hearts that ache. And his sword on the wing forever For the sake of the whole world's sake. —Folger McKinsey in Baltimore Sun.

MAP SHOWS PLAN FOR REDIVISION OF EUROPE.

It Purports to Represent Kaiser's and Allies' Intentions in Case of Victory.

Says a London Daily Telegraph correspondent in a dispatch from Rotterdam:

"A friend, just from Berlin, has brought back a map which explains in a popular manner what the Germans mean Europe should be like in the future and how the Germans believe the allies intend Europe shall be changed. 'It will be news to the people of Scotland and Ireland that their countries are apparently to be left alone, but England is to be pushed into Devon and Cornwall. France is to become an extended Alsace, and Lorraine disappears, and Germany proper ends just beyond St. Petersburg."

"Russia will consist of some swamps to the north, all the southern plains of the great empire of the czar being given either to Austria or formed into a united Poland under German protection."

Printed on the reverse side of this imaginative map is a fantastic outline of what some Germans think are the intentions of the allies. Englishmen will be pleased to learn their country intends to seize the northern provinces of Germany, including the Kiel canal, that they think of handing over the whole of Austria-Hungary to Serbia and that after pushing westward of Russia and eastward of France, Germany is to be left a tiny little spot on the map somewhere in the vicinity of Nuremberg.

RED CROSS WAR STAMPS.

Proposed For American Made Goods to Aid Fund For Wounded.

Acknowledging the receipt of a suggestion to swell the Red Cross fund for the war's wounded, made by an editor of the American Press Association, Robert W. De Forest, vice president of the American Red Cross society, says the plan proposed has been submitted to Miss Mabel T. Boardman, chairman of the executive committee of the organization. The Red Cross society recently sent a vessel carrying surgeons and nurses besides a complete hospital equipment to minister to the wounded in the great armed conflict irrespective of nation. The money necessary to perform this great service to humanity was forthcoming from public subscription.

The idea which has been proposed to increase this fund is to sell to manufacturers in the United States Red Cross stamps bearing a red cross and the popular trade slogan, "Made in America," these stamps to be affixed to all American made retail merchandise shipped by mail or parcel post or sold over the counter to the purchaser, who carries the goods home.

As has been pointed out to Mr. De Forest, such a movement, if inaugurated and made nation wide in scope, is certain to meet with enthusiastic response. It would serve a twofold purpose. First, it would give merchandise of American make wide advertising, and, second, it would yield a large revenue to the Red Cross fund used for the humane purpose of keeping down the awful toll death levies from wounds sustained on the battlefield.

The success of the Red Cross Christmas stamps is proof of what can be done in this direction, and Mr. De Forest has evinced much interest in the proposal that the same idea be employed, but along the lines suggested—to serve those of all nations who fall on the firing line.

BOX PARTY AT BATTLE.

Eight Americans Paid $800 to See the Engagement at Mons.

James A. Wakefield of Pittsburgh, who arrived from Europe, said that he and seven other Americans, ambitious to see a battle, persuaded a Captain Antord of the French commissariat to take them within three miles of the rear of the engagement at Mons. They paid the obliging captain $100 each and went in spring wagons, arriving in the evening as near as they were permitted to go to the field.

He said they could see little of actual destruction, but the air was scarred with exploding shells, farmhouses were burning and the noise was fearsome.

TERRIBLE GERMAN LOSSES

Wounded Soldiers Describe Battle of Sunday and Monday.

Paris, Sept. 23.—Wounded soldiers who are commencing to arrive here from the region up Craonne describe the battles there Sunday and Monday as having been deadly for the Germans, who they say were sacrificed without apparent reason by their officers.

Though pushed back with great slaughter, some of the wounded say, the Germans returned again and again, only to be mowed down by the French. One entire regiment, it was declared, was wiped out and when the French took possession of the field they found 1,000 wounded left by the Germans. Trenches that had been prepared carefully for resistance of the allies' advance were filled with dead.

A superior officer among the wounded estimated the German losses in this engagement alone at 7,000.

SEVEN HUNDRED MEN SAVED

Loss of Life on Three British Cruisers Is Heavy.

Harwich, Eng., Sept. 23.—It is computed here that 700 men were saved from the British cruisers Akoubir, Cressy and Hogue, torpedoed and sunk by five German submarines in a raid in the North sea.

In its daring, as reported by the British admiralty, the attack of the little plungers surpassed any naval maneuver of the present war. The aggregate normal personnel carried by the cruisers was 2,245 men.

Thirty uninjured officers, survivors of the three sunken warships, arrived here. They had been rescued from the water and wore improvised clothing.

Eighty other survivors were landed at Parkstone quay, three miles west of Harwich.

Seek Hidden Wireless Plant.

Washington, Sept. 23.—On complaint of the British embassy the department of agriculture forest rangers have begun a search for a mysterious wireless plant supposed to be operating in the mountains on the Pacific coast. Information furnished to the department is vague, but apparently the plant is sending messages uncensored by the federal government.

Privileges We Enjoy.

Heavenly Father, we pray thee that we may feel the shame with all Christians that in spite of our Lord's own power and presence in this world such strife is still possible; that we may feel the shame with sympathy for all who suffer and with the desire to render our aid; that we may feel due thankfulness for the privileges we enjoy as citizens of this republic.

O Lord Jesus Christ, who satest unto thy disciples, "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you," regard not our sins, but the faith of thy church, and grant to all thy children throughout the whole world that peace and unity which is agreeable to thy will, who livest and reignest God, forever and ever.

The Lord bless us and keep us; the Lord make his face to shine upon us; the Lord lift up his countenance upon us and give us peace now and forever. Amen.

"Blot Out All Hatred."

Prayer prepared by Julia G. Wales:

O God and Father of all the nations of men, who hast set us in families and tribes upon the earth and through the love of parents and children, of sisters and brothers, hast created in our hearts the love of our neighbor, give us, we beseech thee, that peace which the world cannot give. For our love for our own land, O Lord, for our own kin, for our own tongue, for our own laws, for our own faith, for our rulers and leaders, for the hearths and shrines, for the hills and streams of our country, let us know and understand the love of the stranger for the land of his fathers; let us know that love and reverence it even as we would have him honor ours.

By thy mighty love, O Father, blot out all hatred from our hearts, all insincerity and self seeking, all pride and vainglory, all desire for aught save the welfare of the human family. Give to us the utter humility of spirit which alone can discern how best to seek that universal welfare. None of us has clean hands, O Lord. We have all sinned before thee in times and ways without number. We have sought our own; we have oppressed the helpless. In bitter penitence we confess our sins; we beseech thee to remove our transgressions from us. Suffer them no longer to come between us and the knowledge of thy most holy will.

Though it be that we must suffer, grant, O God, grant we beseech thee, that thy truth be not darkened on the earth. By our stained fields and ruined cities, by the terrors of death, by the agony of the wounded, by the tears of the widow, by the bowed head of the aged and the desolation of little children, may we atone, O God. Out of our anguish bring peace. With our blood, if it must be, quench the fires of hatred forever. Let a new love be born, a love never yet known on the earth—the great love of a people for a people, of strong nation for strong nation, the chivalry of the strong to the weak, the trust of the weak in the strong. Give peace in our time, O God. Give peace in our time, O God. May our prayers go up before thee continually until they become one voice, the voice of all nations. O Father of mankind, have mercy upon us for thy mercy's sake. Amen.

"Before Thine In Shame."

From the Christian World Pulpit:

Father of mankind, in whose hands is the destiny of men and nations, we bow before thee in shame and humiliation, the passions, the follies, the blindness, the wickedness of men should strike almost any purpose that thy kingdom should come and thy will be done in earth as in heaven. We beseech thee in thine infinite mercy to shorten the agony of the nations in deadly strife. Soon may the sword be sheathed, and may the hands that are lifted against each other in war soon clasp each other in lasting friendship. Out of the encircling gloom of war may thy light shine, and may men see more clearly than ever before that in thy peace and thine obedience is the will of the nations as well as the rest of the soul.

We implore thee on behalf of the men in the field, of all the nations engaged in strife. Even while they are bravely doing their duty to their countries may they remember that they are Christian men and that the honor of their religion as well as of their country is in their keeping. May those who fall in the field fall as men whose quenchless faith is in the "Captain of their salvation." For those who are wounded we pray that kind hearts and gentle and skillful hands may minister to them and soon restore them to health and strength.

The Divine Injunction.

We would pray for all who are taken prisoners that they may be kept and treated by captors who will remember him who made us love our enemies, and may the captors treat the captives as they themselves wish to be treated.

For those whose hearts will bleed and whose homes will be shadowed by the loss of loved ones, most merciful Father, we remember our representatives in states and civic affairs and pray that in all parliaments, councils and assemblies of men this day the divine ideas of justice, truth, peace, temperance and purity be had in honor, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

O God, who alone canst order the unruly wills and affections of sinful men, we beseech thee to guide the hearts of thy servants to whom thou hast given the responsibilities of government that a way may be found for the speedy restoration of just and honorable peace amongst all nations. We ask it in the name of Jesus Christ, our Lord.

Have mercy, O Lord, upon all the wounded and the suffering. Let thy grace be their comfort, although natural friends try away from them the health of it be good, but chiefly give them such faith and patience that they may glorify thee upon earth and, escaping safely from the assaults of Satan, may rest in peace and rise to partake of thy glory, through Jesus Christ, our Lord.

O Lord Jesus, who hast said "Inasmuch as ye do it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye do it unto me," look upon those of thy servants who have been called by thee to tend the sick, the suffering and the wounded. Give them patience and tenderness, wisdom and truthfulness and the special guidance of thy Holy Spirit in their work, so that they may faithfully minister to those to whom thou shalt send them, in thee and for thee. And may thy will be found worthy at the last to receive thy eternal reward, for thine own merit's sake.

PEACE PRAYERS FOR CHURCH SERVICES OCT. 4

Petitions to the Almighty to Put an End to War
of the Nations.

Day Set For That Purpose
by President Wilson In Proclamation.

PRESIDENT WILSON having issued a proclamation appointing Sunday, Oct. 4, as a day of prayer and requested "all God-fearing persons" to unite at their respective places of worship in supplication to Almighty God to restore concord among the nations now at war, the federal council of the churches of Christ in America and the Church Peace union unite in recommending that the president's proclamation be read in every church and that the whole day be given to intercession for the purposes named by the president.

Among the prayers for peace suggested for the day is this one by Bishop David H. Greer of New York:

O God, who hast made of one blood all men of men to dwell on all the face of the earth, and who in thy holy word hast taught us that One is our Father, even God, and that all we are brethren, we pray thee in this dark hour of international strife that thou wilt open the eyes of the people and those who in thy name are intrusted with the authority of governance to see and understand their right and true relation to thee and through thee to one another. Teach them by thy spirit that hatred and violence are not strength, but weakness; that the true safeguarding of a nation is not to be found in weapons of war, but in those eternal principles which make for righteousness and truth and brotherhood and peace. Give to those who shall suffer in the war which is raging now the consolations of thy grace. Heal the sick, comfort the wounded, minister to the dying and bind up the broken heart. Bring, we pray thee, to a speedy end this international strife and hasten the time when peace shall flourish out of the earth and all shall dwell together in unity and love and war shall be no more. We ask it in the name of our Saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen!

Unity, Peace and Concord.

The following litany has been prepared by the Rev. W. T. Manning of Trinity church, New York:

Almighty God, we pray that it may please thee to give to all nations, even to those now engaged in warfare, unity, peace and concord, Almighty God, we pray that it may please thee to deliver us from all evil and mischief, from plague, pestilence and famine, from battle and murder and sudden death. May emperors, kings, presidents, serve the King of kings. We remember our representatives in state and civic affairs and pray that in all parliaments, councils and assemblies of men this day the divine ideas of love, truth, peace, temperance and purity be had in honor, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

O God, who alone canst order the unruly wills and affections of sinful men, we beseech thee so to guide the hearts of thy servants to whom thou hast given the responsibilities of government that a way may be found for the speedy restoration of just and honorable peace amongst all nations. We ask it in the name of Jesus Christ, our Lord.

Have mercy, O Lord, upon all the wounded and the suffering. Let thy grace be their comfort, although natural friends be far away. Raise them to health if it be good, but chiefly give them such faith and patience that they may glorify thee upon earth and, escaping safe from the assaults of Satan, may rest in peace and rise to partake of thy glory, through Jesus Christ, our Lord.

O Lord Jesus, who hast said "Inasmuch as ye do it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye do it unto me," look upon those of thy servants who have been called by thee to tend the sick, the suffering and the wounded. Give them patience and tenderness, wisdom and grace, to follow the special guidance of thy Holy Spirit in their work, so that they may faithfully minister to those to whom thou shalt send them, in thee and for thee. And may they be found worthy at the last to receive thy eternal reward, for thine own merit's sake.

Privileges We Enjoy.

Heavenly Father, we pray thee that we may feel the shame with all Christians that in spite of our Lord's own power and presence in this world such strife is still possible; that our hearts may be touched with sympathy for all who suffer and with the desire to render our aid; that we may feel due thankfulness for the privileges we enjoy as citizens of this republic.

O Lord Jesus Christ, who saidst unto thy disciples, "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you," regard not our sins, but the faith of thy church, and grant to all thy children, and to the whole world that peace and unity which is agreeable to thy will, who livest and reignest God, forever and ever.

The Divine Injunction.

We would pray for all who are taken prisoners that they may be kept and treated by captors who will remember him who made us love our enemies, and may the captors treat the captives as they themselves wish to be treated.

For those whose hearts will bleed and whose houses will be shadowed by the loss of loved ones, most merciful Father, we would especially pour out our fervent petitions. In their sorrow may they feel that the compassionate Saviour is very near and very dear to them, and may their greatest comfort be in him who said, "I am the Resurrection and the Life; because I live ye shall live also."

Grant, O Heavenly Father, a wisdom to our rulers and governors, that they may wage war with the desire to effect a speedy and a lasting peace, when those who are now our enemies shall be again our friends, and may this war be the last between nations who call themselves Christian and who are all members of the one great family of the common Father.

We would offer a last petition for those who in our own and other countries are called upon to suffer hardship through the interruption of peaceful industry. Grant them the grace of peace, open the hearts and the hands of the stewards of thy wealth that they may help to the utmost of their power their less fortunate brothers and sisters. May our nation at this time be a united family, cheerfully bearing one another's burdens, and so fulfilling the law of Christ.

We ask all in his name and for his sake. Amen.

"Break Thou the Spell."

Walter Rauschenbusch, in prayers of the Social Awakening:

O Lord, since first the blood of Abel cried to thee from the ground that drank the earth of thine has been defiled with the blood of man, shed by the hands of the earth, and the centuries sob with the ceaseless horror of war. Ever the pride of kings and the covetousness of the strong has driven peaceful nations to slaughter. Ever the sons of the past strength and the pomp of armies have been used to inflame the passions of the people. Our spirit cries out to thee in revolt against it, and we know that our righteous anger is answered by thy holy wrath.

Grant, then, that the spirit of the enchainments that make the nations drunk with the lust of battle and draw them on as willing tools of death. Grant us a quiet and steadfast mind when our own nation clamors for vengeance or aggression. Strengthen our sense of justice and our regard for the equal worth of other peoples and races. Grant to the rulers of nations faith in the possibility of peace through justice and grant to the common people a new and true enthusiasm for the cause of peace. Bless our soldiers and sailors for their swift obedience and their willingness to answer to the call of duty, but inspire them none the less with love of private glory or advancement and love of its coming. May our young men still rejoice to die for their country with the valor of their fathers, but teach our age nobler methods of matching our strength and more effective ways of giving our life for the flag.

O thou strong Father of all nations, draw all thy great family together with an increasing sense of our common blood and destiny, that peace may come on earth at last and thy sun may shine in light rejoicing on a holy brotherhood of peoples.

Telephone In His Mausoleum.

Martin Sheets has ordered a telephone in his new $8,000 mausoleum in the Highland Lawn (Indiana) cemetery. He will pay rent far enough in advance always to cover a few months beyond his death. Some years ago, when Sheets had a monument erected at the grave of his father, he made a statement of what he paid for the monument and the amount it cost him cut in granite.

To Don Cotton Gowns to Aid Planters.

Amie Kincaid Dent of Yazoo La., has appealed to women of the south to aid cotton planters by wearing cotton gowns. More than a score of New Orleans women noted for their gowns have agreed to discard silks and fine clothes for cotton. The movement promises to be widespread.

WAR TAX PUZZLE IS HARD TO SOLVE

Every Suggestion Meets With Some Objections.

INJECT POLITICS INTO BILL

Tobacco Producing States Oppose Tax on Smokers—Saloon Keepers Who Reduce Size of "a Beer" Assert That Poor Man's Drink Is Being Taxed. Difficult to Forecast Effect.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—It begins to look as if the raising of additional revenue were going to be about the hardest proposition of the present administration. Every suggestion for a tax met with objections. No one wants to pay more taxes, and every interest tried to push it over on the other fellow.

Luxuries will have to stand the bulk of the taxes, and these will include articles which people can do without, such as whisky, beer, wines and tobacco. And yet there is strong opposition to such taxes. The men from tobacco states fear that the producers will have to pay the increase and that it will materially affect the consumption of tobacco.

The Political Aspect.

There is politics in the whole subject. The south will be vitally affected by increased tobacco taxes and to some extent the increase on spirits, which are produced in that section. But there is another aspect to the liquor increase. One prominent Democrat from a big city thus explained it: "In my city the liquor interests will form themselves into a political party, with 8,000 saloons as working headquarters, and fight the party which imposes the increased taxes. This is a mighty power and dangerous to the party. The claim will be made that the poor man's beer is being taxed. The glass of beer will be smaller, and the saloon man will explain that it is on account of the increased tax. There is political danger in taxing liquors as well as in imposing other kinds of taxes."

A Modest Senator.

The senate was discussing a financial bill, one of several emergency currency measures which have been proposed. Senator Gallinger was doubtful about the measure. "What I do not know in reference to financial matters," he said, "would make a large volume, and what I do know could be easily written on a single page." And then he went on to protest against the expansion and inflation of the currency, expressing the fear that it was fraught with danger in the future.

Twelve Dollars a Minute.

Congressman Cooper of Wisconsin called down the "Twelve dollar a minute men" in the house a few days ago. Those who object to debate, to continuous sessions and insist that congress should adjourn generally end up with the grand stand play that "congress is costing the people $12 a minute."

Might Be Perjury.

When a bill was considered concerning some old man who as a boy served in the civil war the testimony showed that he made a false oath as to the date of his birth. That started the important controversy as to whether or not a man could swear to the date of his birth and be sure that he was not committing perjury. Congressman Smith of Minnesota asserted that the best any man could do under the circumstances was to swear "on information and belief," for he had to take the word of some other reliable people as to that event.

Discovered Arcadia.

During the discussion of the river and harbor bill reference was made to Arcadia, and Senator Burton, always fully informed, told about the little Michigan town.

"I bow to the senator from Ohio," said William Alden Smith. "At last neglected Arcadia is enshrined in the records of the government."

"The senator from Michigan is entitled to the honor of putting Arcadia on the map," replied Burton. "They ought to tax themselves to the last dollar in order to erect a bronze statue of him there."

"Why not have congress appropriate the money?" asked Kenyon of Iowa.

"Put it in this bill," chimed in Norris of Nebraska.

Thus do senators beguile themselves while fighting the big improvement measure.

"Don't Want to Adjourn."

"When is this session going to adjourn?" was a question put to Reed Smoot.

"They Don't Want to Adjourn."

was the reply of the Utah senator, his "they" meaning the Democrats. As he generally knows what is going on, it may be that he has the right idea. It is not believed that President Wilson wants the session to end, at least not right away.

The Samaritan's Sword

The sword of the silver sunlight is the only one he wields. The sword of the deeds of mercy in the bloom of the fragrant fields. A song on his lips forever. And the banner that over him springs The green of the leafy pennant. On the boughs of a thousand springs.

The sword of the silver sunlight—ah, sweeter was never born!—With its sapphire handle gleaming in the dewy dream of morn: A smile in his heart forever, And wherever he goes a word, As soft as the tender beauty Of the song of the woodland bird.

The sword of the silver sunlight that flashes about the skies, Catching the laughing twinkle of the good Samaritan's eyes: A rose in his hand forever As over the world he goes To plant in the path of the living, The flower of the deathless rose.

The sword of the silver sunlight, more everlasting than steel, And always drawn in the service of love that is long and leal: A kiss on the brow that suffer, A smile for the hearts that ache, And his sword on the wing forever For the sake of the whole world's sake. —Folger McKinsey in Baltimore Sun.

MAP SHOWS PLAN FOR REDIVISION OF EUROPE.

It Purports to Represent Kaiser's and Allies' Intentions In Case of Victory.

Says a London Daily Telegraph correspondent in a dispatch from Rotterdam:

"A friend, just from Berlin, has brought back a map which explains in a popular manner what the Germans mean Europe should be like in the future and how the Germans believe the allies intend Europe shall be changed."

"It will be news to the people of Scotland and Ireland that their countries are apparently to be left alone, but England is to be pushed into Devon and Cornwall. France is to become an extended Alsace, and Lorraine disappears, and Germany proper ends just beyond St. Petersburg."

"Russia will consist of some swamps to the north, all the southern plains of the great empire of the czar being given either to Austria or formed into a united Poland under German protection."

Printed on the reverse side of this imaginative map is a fantastic outline of what some Germans think are the intentions of the allies. Englishmen will be pleased to learn their country intends to seize the northern provinces of Germany, including the Kiel canal, that they think of handing over the whole of Austria-Hungary to Serbia and that after pushing westward of Russia and eastward of France, Germany is to be left a tiny little spot on the map somewhere in the vicinity of Nuremberg.

RED CROSS WAR STAMPS.

Proposed For American Made Goods to Aid Fund For Wounded.

Acknowledging the receipt of a suggestion to swell the Red Cross fund for the war's wounded, made by an editor of the American Press Association, Robert W. De Forest, vice president of the American Red Cross society, says the plan proposed has been submitted to Miss Mabel T. Boardman, chairman of the executive committee of the organization. The Red Cross society recently sent a vessel carrying surgeons and nurses besides a complete hospital equipment to minister to the wounded in the great armed conflict irrespective of nation. The money necessary to perform this great service to humanity was forthcoming from public subscription.

The idea which has been proposed to increase this fund is to sell to manufacturers in the United States Red Cross stamps bearing a red cross and the popular trade slogan, "Made In America," these stamps to be affixed to all American made retail merchandise shipped by mail or parcel post or sold over the counter to the purchaser, who carries the goods home.

As has been pointed out to Mr. De Forest, such a movement, if inaugurated and made nation wide in scope, is certain to meet with enthusiastic response. It would serve a twofold purpose. First, it would give merchandise of American make wide advertising, and, second, it would yield a large revenue to the Red Cross fund used for the humane purpose of keeping down the awful toll death levies from wounds sustained on the battlefield.

The success of the Red Cross Christmas stamps is proof of what can be done in this direction, and Mr. De Forest has evinced much interest in the proposal that the same idea be employed, but along the lines suggested to serve those of all nations who fall on the firing line.

BOX PARTY AT BATTLE.

Eight Americans Paid $800 To See the Engagement at Mons.

James A. Wakefield of Pittsburgh, who arrived from Europe, said that he and seven other Americans, ambitious to see a battle, persuaded a Captain Antord of the French commissariat to take them within three miles of the rear of the engagement at Mons. They paid the obliging captain $100 each and went in spring wagons, arriving in the evening as near as they were permitted to go to the field.

He said they could see little of actual destruction, but the air was seared with exploding shells, farmhouses were burning and the noise was fearsome.

TERRIBLE GERMAN LOSSES

Wounded Soldiers Describe Battle of Sunday and Monday.

Paris, Sept. 23.—Wounded soldiers who are commencing to arrive here from the region up Craonne describe the battles there Sunday and Monday as having been deadly for the Germans, who they say were sacrificed without apparent reason by their officers.

Though pushed back with great slaughter, some of the wounded say, the Germans returned again and again, only to be mowed down by the French. One entire regiment, it was declared, was wiped out and when the French took possession of the field they found 1,000 wounded left by the Germans. Trenches that had been prepared carefully for resistance of the allies' advance were filled with dead.

A superior officer among the wounded estimated the German losses in this engagement alone at 7,000.

SEVEN HUNDRED MEN SAVED

Loss of Life on Three British Cruisers Is Heavy.

Harwich, Eng., Sept. 23.—It is computed here that 700 men were saved from the British cruisers Akoubir, Cressy and Hogue, torpedoed and sunk by five German submarines in a raid in the North sea.

In its daring, as reported by the British admiralty, the attack of the little plungers surpassed any naval maneuver of the present war. The aggregate normal personnel carried by the cruisers was 2,265 men.

Thirty uninjured officers, survivors of the three sunken warships, arrived here. They had been rescued from the water and wore improvised clothing.

Eighty other survivors were landed at Parkstone quay, three miles west of Harwich.

Seek Hidden Wireless Plant.

Washington, Sept. 23.—On complaint of the British embassy the department of agriculture forest rangers have begun a search for a mysterious wireless plant supposed to be operating in the mountains on the Pacific coast. Information furnished to the department is vague, but apparently the plant is sending messages uncensored by the federal government.
